Abstrak

This paper discusses the critics of Arabic literature in comparison with that of Indonesian in order to seek the uniqueness of language. The writer argues that the meaning of critic of Arabic literature, its relation with some other literature has a close relation and continuously develop the theory. The new feature of literature theory marks the trend of development following the time and place. Structuralism; post-structuralism and feminist are among the examples in contemporary letters. Despite having similarity, there are differences in some aspects which may denote a distinct structure.....
