Abstrak

The particular goal of this research is know explicitly the empirical description on " The Influence of Government Culture and Government Organization to Performance of Local Government in service to society" location of this research was done in Province of DKI Jakarta with basic consideration as a region which is full of problem espically on government issues to be researched. Main problem of the research was how is the influence of government culture and government organization of local government in service implementation to society done by The Service Sectors of DKI Jakarta Prpvince in giving service to community as a policy option of local government responsibility to overcome various social problem espically unemployment proverty, defile settlement, disorder, traffic jam and population density which are raising ore in province of DKI Jakarta . This research used theories of government culture, government organization, local government performance and community service. Based on those theories it was designed by using quantitative methods with survey research based on research object. The result of the research was tasted by using Pah Analysis Formula developed by Swall Wright with data nalysis strategy using Linear Structure relations (LISREL). The result showed that empirically, government culture and government organization were partially or collectively in influenced the performance of local government, is the performance of Dinas in service implementation to society because government culture is still oriented to power culture , not service culture oriented. Moreover, it's influenced by very hierarchical government organization design with procedural job pattern had caused slow responsive and responsibility of government in overcoming the problems appear in community. Slow responsibility of local government performance to various issues appears in society caused the degree of trust and participation of society are getting lower to local government.
