In this new era, with the presence of foreign investors as well as foreign human resources especially in the hospital field, the competition has increased especially in the efforts to attract customers or patients. This condition causes the hospital's owner and management to determine their target or customers, especially through the customers' perceptions.

The aim of this research is to determine the position of the Cinere Prima Husada Specialist and Delivery Clinic from the present market target through customer or market perception. This position determination research is an analytical descriptive research with quantitative and qualitative approaches with cross sectional design. The quantitative approach used questionnaires given to 100 (one hundred) responders. Where as the qualitative approach was a thorough interview with Prima Husada Specialist and Delivery Clinic management.

The results showed that the majority of Prima Husada Specialist and Delivery Clinic customers come from around the Cinere area, have stayed there for 2 - 8 years, with ages of 20 - 40 years old, with salaries of 1 -

2.5 million rupiahs per month, having heard of Prima Husada Specialist and Delivery Clinic from friends or family, and they were self-paid. In this research, it was found that a segment of the customers paid close attention to the fee and treatment.

From the analysis it was concluded that the market or customer target determined by management were those living in Cinere and its surroundings, especially women in their productive age of 20 ? 40 years old with incomes ranging fom Rp. 1 - 2.5 million per month. In addition, the targeted patients are those who pay for the treatments themselves. Therefore the managment is positioning Prima Husada Specialist and Delivery Clinic, as well as the future mother and child hospital, to focus its customers on those in the middle-low economy segment.
