

Classical Philology

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20272945&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

ABSTRAK

Simonides called painting silent poetry and poetry painting that speak. This line is the earliest recorded expression of the idea that word and image are interchangeable as well as equivalent. Later, Aristotle set forth the notion that the mind holds visual images in his treatises on the mind and memory.