ABSTRACT

This thesis discusses the influence of customer perceived value, brand image, and switching costs on consumer's intention to use brand Indosat Mentari. This research is a descriptive quantitative research. The model used in this study refers to the research model used by Ogwo & Igwe (2012) and Asiegbu, Igwe, & Iruka (2012). As for measuring the customer perceived value using PERVAL measurement that was developed by Sweeney & Soutar (2001) by looking at the value dimensions of perceived value, they are emotional value, social value, monetary value, and convenience value. The results of this study found that the dimensions of customer perceived value, which includes the functional value (performance/quality), functional value (price), social value, and emotional value, has a significant and positive impact on consumer's intention to use. While switching costs and brand image do not have a significant impact on consumer's intention to use.
