Abstrak

Eratnya hubungan sejarah antara Indonesia dan Belanda merupakan salah satu factor penentu keragaman budaya di Indonesia. Salah satunya adalah keragaman gaya berpakaian masyarakat pulau Jawa pada abad 18--19 dilihat melalui tingkat pendidikan, jenis pekerjaan dan jenis kelamin. Terjadi percampuran budaya berpakaian antara masyarakat Belanda dan masyarakat pulau Jawa pada abad ke- 18—19. Masyarakat pulau Jawa mulai mengenal dan mengenakan jas, kemeja lengan panjang, alas kaki berupa sepatu tertutup, gaun dan pakaian tidur. Mereka juga mulai mengenal renda, pita, topi, sepatu, kaus kaki, tutupan kepala dan motif pada pakaian. Percampuran kebudayaan yang terjadi dan berlangsung pada kehidupan sehari-hari ini merupakan hasil dari proses keberterimaan budaya berpakaian masyarakat Belanda oleh masyarakat pulau Jawa abad ke-18--19, meskipun pada dasarnya masing-masing kebudayaan sangatlah bertolak belakang.

The tying historical relation between Indonesia and the Dutch plays one of the key factor to Indonesia diversity in culture. One of Indonesia culture being impacted is the attire, specifically in Java island during the 18 to 19 century. The attire change is reflected through education level, occupation, and gender. With the Dutch arrival, the traditional attire style of Javanese society are mixed with the Dutch attire culture. Javanese people began to discovered suits, long sleeves shirt, conventional shoes, dress and night clothes. Not only clothes, Javanese began to know other attire accessories such as lace, ribbon, hats, socks, and motif on clothes. The blending between the two culture occurred along the daily lives. Even in reality the two culture contracted against each other, the Javanese society acceptance to the Dutch attire culture had made new fusion which lead to culture diversity.
