

Umat Kristiani dan politik di Indonesia: dari politik minoritas ke politik pluralisme

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20409781&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

Theological attitude and political position of Christians in Indonesia is ambivalent, which cause these people to be cornered as minority parasite. This situation needs to addressed, and deeper understanding of Reformed heritage and Sam Ratulangi's struggle in the dire era of Indonesian birth in 1945 can inspire a new mode of theology and Indonesian Christian political presence today. In this light, the strategic direction of Christian politics lies in the pluralism political movement.
