

Sistem pendidikan nasional dalam tantangan

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20409787&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

There needs to be good will among public education policy makers at national among and regional levels to the point of even inviting representatives from teachers at the local level to participate in the making of the curriculum, asking to be involved in the management of the educational process, soliciting their help in the plan at all levels, asking them to assist in the periodical assessments and following them up on it. These teachers should, in fact, be and actually are at the front line the effort to provide national policy for the system of education and should be actively involved in its Any educational system should aim at the eradication of poverty from society and, at the same time, out of justice, to provide education to everyone and for everyone. These principles really need to be followed considering the variety o the situations of people who are living in Indonesia.