Abstrak

ABSTRACT This paper analyzes daughter discrimination among Chinese people in The Black Isle novel. The main points of this paper are the factors and the negative impacts of daughter discrimination. Kristina Göranson (2010) and Peter N. Stearn (2006) arguments and writings are the framework of this study. The findings show that Chinese's old traditions and beliefs are the core factors of daughter discrimination, and as a result daughter discrimination leads to negative impacts for the discriminated people's behaviors and their families. This study shows that novels often bring issues based on situation in the real world that can be learned in order to avoid it.
