Abstrak

Good governance is efforts to manage economic and social resources transparently, accountably, and anticipatively involving the state, industry, and society sectors. Implementation of the principles of transparency and accountability will support each element of good government to manage nation well. By doing so, each decision state administrative court can be accountable for the public and the law. Te government (central and provincial level) should encourage industries and communities in every policy and effort to advance the societies. The implementation of good governance is a must, not just a trend in international relationship. Therefore, all officials and staffs of governmental institution and other state organizations should improve their understanding in executing good governance.
