Abstrak

Sebagai kamar kedua, DPD seharusnya memiliki peran yang fundamental dalam proses demokrasi yang ada di Indonesia. Lahir dari semangat reformasi, DPD seharusnya mampu menyuarakan aspirasi daerah di tingkat pusat. Namun, hal tersebut bertolak belakang dengan desain kelembagaan DPD di dalam UUD 1945 yang tidak mencerminkan hal tersebut. Hal ini terlihat dari kewenangan yang dimiliki DPD hanya bersifat subordinatif terhadap DPR. Permasalahan ketimpangan kewenangan tersebut tidak hanya terjadi dalam legislasi dan pengawasan, namun juga terhadap keterlibatan DPD dalam proses pemberhentian Presiden. Di dalam penelitian ini, penulis akan menjelaskan bagaimana keterlibatan DPD dalam proses pemberhentian Presiden di dalam UUD 1945

As a second chamber, DPD should have a fundamental role in the democratic process in Indonesia. Born from the spirit of reform, the DPD should be able to voice the aspirations, as a regional representation, at the center level. However, it is contrary due to the institutional design of DPD in the 1945 Constitution that does not reflect it. Based on the authority of DPD in 1945 Constitution, DPD is merely subordinate to DPR as a first chamber. The problem is not only in legislation and supervision authority, but also in the involvement of DPD in the process of presidential impeachment. In this study, the author will explain how the involvement of DPD in the process of presidential impeachment in 1945 Constitution.
