

Kiat melakukan pendekatan anak yang tidak kooperatif dalam perawatan gigi

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20437966&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

Child patient management skills are essential for the dentists who want to successfully manage children. Without appropriate clinician skills in behavior management dental care in pediatric dentistry may be impractical for some children. Treatment of difficult children without effective behavioral management may appear cruel to the child may be perceived by unsatisfactory by the parent and can be exhausting to the clinician. Proper management of children is probably the most important responsibility of dentists who practice pediatric dentistry. Variety of factors may influenced the child behavior in the dental clinic, such as: growth and development, family and peers pass medical and dental experiences and the dental environment it self. This factors should be take attention by the dentists to diagnose the child behavior to dental clinic then choose the appropriate the technical behavior to manage the child.