ABSTRACT

This journal is motivated by the role of the king of faisal against the efforts of Palestinian independence. This is interesting enough to be studied because the Saudi Arabian kings thereafter did not seem to be serious about the efforts of Palestinian independence. Even the Saudi Arabian tendency toward Israeli domination is not so self-evident. The data are obtained from primary and secondary reading sources using qualitative methods, and descriptive survey. From the results of the discussion concluded that the king of faisal is the peak of glory of Saudi Arabia as a sovereign state. The non-dependence of the king of faisal to America is very visible.
