Praise for the First Edition: "A lucid and compelling deconstruction of current practice in the patenting of human genes, exposing inherent contradictions in the process and offering practical ways to resolve them." -

John Sulston, the University of Manchester, Nobel Prize Laureate --

"Who owns you is lucidly written and reads as a 101 gene patenting. It is a book suitable for all who wish to understand gene patenting, and obtain a fresh perspective on associated ethical and legal matters". --

Ethical Perspectives --

"We live in a century when quandaries that seemed more appropriate For science fiction will become real...

David Koepsell here raises a set of Fascinating questions that all of us, and policy makers in particular, should ponder as science is slowly redefining what it means to human." --

Lawrence Krauss. Arizona State University --

"Koepsell's timely book is highly recommended for all reading levels." --
