.....PT ANTAM Tbk's Precious Metal Processing and Refinery Business Unit (UBPP Logam Mulia) has a marketing communication department that carries out the corporate's public relations function to handle public relations and marketing activities. In this regard, one of the marketing public relations (MPR) programs carried out by the marketing communication department is publication activity, which is the main strategy and tool of the MPR. Online publication activities are carried out through social media like Instagram to support promotional activities, improve product sales, and increase brand awareness. This study aims to analyze how the marketing communication department at UBPP Logam Mulia plays a role and functions as corporate public relations in order to increase brand awareness through their social media account on Instagram. This research uses a post-positivism paradigm and qualitative-descriptive approach and the data is obtained through a semi-structured in-depth interview. The result of this research shows that the marketing communication department of UBPP Logam Mulia, as the corporate's public relations, executes the MPR program. One of the programs is a publication activity using a push and pass strategy through social media by managing the Instagram account of UBPP Logam Mulia as a business account, as well as utilizing features such as feeds, stories and Instagram TV, using hashtags and planning publication content to increase public brand awareness.
