Abstrak

Women view according to their stereotype is a graceful, patient, loving person and has a good morality is better than men. However different with that myth, many women are doing a crime/drug abuse even increased more and more.

The research method which use is qualitative method, did through deep interview with three women prisoner repeated offender drug user (DU, IJ and S) as a key informant which available at Pondok Bambu Prison, also with another informant are prisoner Family and employees of Pondok Bambu Prison. Choosing of informants are based on informant, a criteria is prisoner repeated offender, young age, cooperative and start using drug from teenager.

From the research found several factors that caused three women prisoner repeated offender are using drug. those factors are individual (private). factor which is weak interaction with wrong society environment (drug environment) and drug factor it self. Other than that, there are also a different between men drug user and women drug user. Women besides as a drug user, they are also a victim. On patriarki culture women always as a second party which is a weaken and suppressed. Women which addicted to drug are susceptible as a victim of violence and men sexual despising. On community opinion women regarded has a good morality so improper to do a crime.
